TEACHER'S Dictionary

Personification

I sat on the curb. The gas tin glared at me and rolled away when the wind picked up. My feet were sticky with guilt. A car honked, and the driver knew.
Was it because they saw me?

TEACHER'S Dictionary

Metaphor

The hardest and best of metaphors are a stretch that together to the point of an idea that carry weight. When you use a metaphor, you are comparing two things that are not alike in an obvious way. The metaphor is a stretch that together to the point of an idea that carry weight.

TEACHER'S Dictionary

Hyperbole

The Simile is the closest thing to a metaphor in a comparison.
By presenting to us a bit of reality, the whole gets away with it.

Allusion

Thanks to Facebook and its beta version, I know that my favorite color is blue. It's called "What Color of Love are you?" It's a Facebook feature that is what the golden retriever likes. It's a double-edged sword and a bit of a joke.
From Facebook to Facebook and to Facebook. You say, up and down.

literary devices

& Techniques

SOME HEAVY HITTERS

allusion

Are there any subtle or overt references to other literary or historical figures, stories, or events? How do these add to the work? How are they appropriate?

apostrophe

Is the speaker addressing someone or something outside the poem? Why?

enjambment

In a poem, when one line or stanza runs over into the next with no punctuation to what effect?

imagery

An appeal to one or more of the senses: to what effect?

form/genre

Is the poem or text in a certain form? Why might the writer have chosen this form?

diction

Why did the writer choose the words he/she did? What connotations are suggested? Are there patterns? Puns? What mood and tone does the diction create? Is the language abstract or concrete?

tone

How does the speaker convey his or her attitude toward the subject matter?

paradox/oxymoron

Does the writer include something that seems contradictory but actually makes a kind of sense? Why?

metaphor

What comparisons are made and how do they enhance meaning? Is the work as a whole built on a comparison or analogy?

personification

Does the writer give animals, things, or ideas human qualities? What effect does this have?

foreshadowing

Does the author hint at what's to come, either overtly or subtly? What effect does that have?

alliteration

The repetition of sounds at the beginning of words. What effect does this have?

repetition

Does the writer repeat phrases, words, structure, sounds? To what effect?

irony

Does the writer create a discrepancy or contrast between what is stated and what is really meant, or between what you expect and what actually happens? Why?

setting

Why did the writer choose the setting he/she did? How does this affect meaning?

pace/cadence/rhythm

How does the story or poem progress, and at what pace? Is there a detectable rhythm or meter and what effect does it have? Does it change and, if so, how and to what effect?

SYMBOLISM

“Shoot all the bluejays you want, if you can hit 'em, but remember it's a sin to kill a mockingbird.”
